Sunday-School Lesson

Lesson for June 28

REVIEW

GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.—Acts 1:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Boy Jesus at the Temple School.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Asking and Answering Questions.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Some of the Early Church.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How the Gospel Spread.

As usual, the methods employed in this review largely depend upon the teacher and the class. Two methods are suggested:

First: The biographical. This is a method which can nearly always be used to advantage, since pupils of all ages are interested in the study of persons. Peter, Paul, Stephen, Philip and Barnabas are very prominent characters in the quarter's lessons. These may be assigned to members of the class the week before with a view of a brief biographical sketch being prepared and read to the class.

Second: The summary method. This method calls for the review of the principal facts of each lesson with statement of the leadings teachings thereof. The following is suggested:

Lesson I.—On the Day of Pentecost, the risen and ascended Christ sent the promise of the Father causing the Holy Ghost to descend upon the disciples to qualify them to be witnesses of His death and resurrection to all the world.

Lesson II.—The healing of the lame man shows that the risen Christ is able to make strong a man who was born a cripple. The man who was healed thoroughly advertised the miracle. Those who have experienced the life of God cannot help but make it known.

Lesson III.—The church is God's dwelling place. Since it is His dwelling place it is as holy as the holy place in the sanctuary. The judgment which befell Ananias and Sapphira proves that God will not allow the hypocrite to escape His judgment.

Lesson IV.—The behavior of Stephen proves that the risen Christ is able to sustain His witnesses, even while they are sealing their testimony with their blood. His standing shows His active interest in His disciples.

Lesson V.—The experiences of Philip and his companion show that total abstinence pays.

Lesson VI.—Philip, the only man in the New Testament called evangelist is in the energy of the Spirit preaching the Word and winning men to Christ.

Lesson VII.—The conversion of Saul, the bitter enemy of Christ, is an illustrious example of what the revelation of Christ in His glory can do and also illustrates the method of the conversion of Israel.

Lesson VIII.—After Saul's conversion, he straightway preached Christ as the Son of God. Those who are really saved them whom they have believed.

Lesson IX.—The stupendous miracle wrought by the risen Christ at the hands of Peter proved that the gospel had some of its power by being preached abroad.

Lesson X.—When Christ would break down the middle wall of partition between the Jews and Gentiles, He gave to Cornelius and Peter each a vision. When the gospel was offered to the Gentiles, the Holy Ghost came upon them as at Pentecost.

Lesson XI.—Before the foreign missionary enterprise was launched, a new center of operation was established at Antioch. The Holy Spirit established this strategical center and sent out the missionaries.

Lesson XII.—The risen Christ hears the prayers of the church and sends His angels to deliver His faithful servants.

The Best Judges Us

Our attitude concerning the great value, the great reality, the great personality, is not to put pressure upon our own minds or upon the minds of others to believe in them; and not primarily either with ourselves or others to defend them or to argue for them, but simply to give them opportunity with us and to do what we may to help others, too, to give that opportunity. The best, thus, judges us rather than we [illegible]—Henry Churchill King.

Better Than Guilt

Better it were, that all the miseries which nature owns were ours at once, than guilt.—Shakespeare.

Let Us Not Lose Faith

Earl Balfour said not long ago: "Let us not fear that the future is going to be less glorious than the past. Problems of which we never dreamed multiply upon us until we are almost overwhelmed. But let us not lose faith or courage."

For Truth's Sake

To love truth for truth's sake is the principal part of human perfection in this world and the seed-plot of all other virtues.—John Locke.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run-down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. Because Catarrh in its early stages is local disease it is easily influenced by constitutional conditions.

LIVER TROUBLE

Louisiana Man Tells How He Keeps "Up and Going."

"It doesn't matter how strong and healthy we think we are," says Mr. W. S. Reynolds, of Arcadia, La., "every once in a while, in order to keep up and going, we have to cleanse the system and take a little something for the liver.

"My old standby is Black-Draught,—I have used it off and on for 20 years.

"I get bilious and have a bad taste in my mouth. My head feels dull. I just don't feel like getting around and doing my work. I know it isn't laziness, but biliousness, so I take a few doses of Black-Draught and, when it acts, I get up feeling like new, full of pep and ready for any kind of work. I can certainly recommend it."

Black-Draught liver medicine is made from pure, medicinal roots and herbs and contains no harmful, habit-forming mineral drugs. In an easy, natural way it helps cleanse the system of poisonous impurities and tends to leave the organs in a normal, healthy condition.

THRILLS ON "THE MAIN STREET MESSENGER"

The life of the small-town reporter has many thrills. Eva Hunt Dockery of the Idaho Daily Statesman of Boise liers, as a few of the more dramatic, interviewing Peferewski through a knothole, being set upon bodily by an irate wife who mistook Mrs. Dockery for her husband's affairs, writing up the first motor trip to California while the dusty gentleman gave out details having the police called when she tried to get a picture of a murdered woman.

The woman reporter in the smaller place, Mrs. Dockery says, gets a chance to interview notables when they come through the town. If she were on a big city daily these interviews would go to the star reporters and her own progress toward the most interesting feature of news writing would thus be delayed or curtailed. Among Mrs. Dockery's choicest possessions are notes from Schumann-Heink, Ida Tarbell, and other notables. A silver dagger, specially inscribed, is a memento of what promised to be an unpublishable interview with Mme. Nordica, but which eventuated into such a friendship that the singer always sent for the writer when she reached Boise.

Originally a trained librarian, the secretary of the Idaho state free library commission once lost her position through a change of political color of the statehouse. Just then the Statesman was short a society editor, hunted her up and offered her the job.

"It was when I went to San Francisco and talked with the newspaper women there," Mrs. Dockery writes, "that I first realized my good fortune in receiving training on a small-town paper. Of course we consider ours the biggest little newspaper in the country. Anyway, the bright young newspaper girls I met claimed quite to envy me my varied experience covering police and Supreme courts, hotel interviews and celebrities—everything at one time or another except the legislature. Even in the matter of finances I believe the small-town newspaper woman has the best of the argument. While the pay is small, the living expenses are cheaper and there is always a chance of getting a raise. Many a reporter and writer, doing publicity for themselves, etc.,

Men and Money Make this Bank Secure.

THERE are two ways of measuring the strength and standing of a bank. In the first place—and perhaps even more important—are men, the officers and directors. They give the bank character, determine and execute its policies.

This is a strong bank, a helpful bank because it has ample resources, and a personnel of proven character and ability.
